

Arabic poetry in the context of comparative literature studies

The poem modern model

Dr. Muhammad Abdullah ALMUBARAK
Assistant Professor of Modern Arabic Poetry
Department of Arabic Language and Literature
College of Arts. King Saud University

Abstract

Throughout history Arabic and western literatures have been sharing a number of joint points . It has always been said that each of the two types of literature affect each other in one way or another as far as both poetry and prose are concerned .

Accordingly , This study discusses some aspects in which the effect of western literature on Arabic one is so obvious . This work should be carried out through detailed analyses of a number of appropriate modern Arabic poems.